NINETEEN SURVIVE

HORRIBLE TALES OF LARCHMONT DISASTER.

138 ARE KNOWN TO BE DEAD

MEN THRUST HELPLESS WOMEN ASIDE IN EXCITEMENT.

CHARGE OF COWARDICE MADE

Brooklyn Lad Claims Captain McVey Left Sinking Ship in First Lifeboat—Others Contradict Story. Sublime Faith in God Saves One Passenger.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 13.—Terrible tales of suffering were brought here tonight by some of the nineteen survivors of the steamer Larchmont, which went to the bottom of Block Island sound Monday night and one of the passengers asserted that in the hour of peril helpless women were thrust aside by men who cared only for their own safety.

Charge of Cowardice.

The charge of cowardice was made by Fred. Hiergesell, an 18-year-old lad of Brooklyn, N. Y. He said that not only were women left to their fate, but that Captain McVey left the sinking ship in the very first lifeboat; that some of the ship's crew filled the boats to the exclusion of the passengers and that at least one boats was without oars when it put over the side.

Louis McFarland, a colored waiter, said when he reached the captain's boat he found Captain McVey there. The captain ordered that the boat be swung out, calling to the passengers at the same time to step in. The passengers, McFarland said, seemed afraid to do so, and as the steamer was going down fast Captain McVey ordered that the boat be lowered. When it reached the water, however, a rope fastened to the ring bolt and attached to the davit above became caught and those in the boat were in danger of being dragged down with the steamer, when Boatswain Andrew Tobesen, who was on the deck, saved their lives by cutting the rope.

Hiergesell's statement was not confirmed by any other survivor, but he insists that he is right.

Schooner Responsible

President Dunbaugh tonight said: "The schooner was responsible for the collision. In view of the horrible condition which prevailed immediately after the accident, I am satisfied that the men did all in their power to meet the situation as honorably as they could. It appears from my investigation that the steamer was luffed into by the schooner.

A careful compilation of figures in this city early today shows that 138 lives are known to have been lost in the disaster. It is known there were [illegible] 157 persons on board the steamer. Of that number only 19 survive. Seventy-one bodies have been recovered, 38 of them having been identified. There are still 100 passengers who are either missing or unidentified.

Twenty More Bodies Recovered.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I. Feb. 13.—Twenty-two more bodies of victims of the Larchmont disaster were brought ashore late today by fishing schooners.

The survivors of Monday night's disaster off Watch Hill were today taken to Providence on the steamer Kentucky, where they will receive medical treatment. Forty-nine bodies recovered yesterday also were taken aboard the steamer.

The Kentucy had just cleared the harbor when in came the schooners, one after another with their grewsome loads and with their flags at half mast. The little life-saving stations that were once more turned into morgues. As on yesterday, the surf boats were run out and the dead were placed on the floor, side by side, to await the arrival of another steamer to carry them to Providence.

The bodies brought in today were, with one exception, fully clothed, and in addition, had life preservers strapped on them. The victims evidently had remained on board the Larchmont longer than those whose bodies were recovered yesterday. All were incased in ice. To remove this covering the life savers worked long and patiently in the hope of making identification as early as possible.

George Uhler, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service today sent telegrams to the government inspectors at Providence and New London instructing them to interview the survivors of the Larchmont wreck to ascertain if the Larchmont was provided with the proper equipment as required by law.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 13.—The steamer Kentucky, bearing 18 survivors of the Larchmont disaster and 49 bodies of those who perished, reached here this evening. The survivors were taken to hospitals, while the dead were placed in morgues.

Many Perish From Cold.

Physicians, after examining the bodies, said that in numerous instances death resulted from cold rather than drowning.

The unnatural position of the bodies showed the terrible effects of the cold. One body, that of a woman, was placed on a slab, and as her head rested on it her hair, frozen solid, extended to the floor.

A thrilling story of the disaster is told by Harris Feldman of New York, who, with his wife, was saved. After dressing, Feldman and his wife ran to the hurricane deck. They had been there but a moment when the Larchmont began sinking so rapidly that it seemed they must be lost. A wave struck the top of the steamer and ripped off a huge piece of the superstructure, upon which they and many other passengers were standing.

As the wreckage slipped into the sea many of the passengers, either fell back into the salon of the steamer or were thrown into the water. After the wreckage, which was in effect an immense raft, had been away from the ship a few moments, Mr. Feldman counted his companions. Besides himself and his wife there were 33 on board, but they were crowded so badly that one by one they began to drop off into the sea.

Some, crazed by the cold, jumped from the raft and were drowned. Others sitting near the edge were swept away, and still others, frozen to death, dropped into the water. An hour after the raft had been swept away from the steamer there were but 16 persons on it and of these only eight were alive. Mrs. Feldman was slowly freezing to death, when he begged her to move her hands and feet constantly. She did not wish to do so, saying that she would rather go to sleep as she wanted to die. It was only by constant attention that Mr. Feldman was able to save his wife from death, similar to that which came to others.

Raft Drifts for Thirteen Hours.

"For 13 hours the raft drifted about helplessly, and when the schooner Clara E came alongside and rescued them every person on board was covered with ice. Mrs. Feldman was the first to be lifted to the schooner, but half insane, she leaped from the hands of her rescuers back onto the raft, screaming wildly that she would not be separated from her husband.

PARKS DEFIES CAUCUS

SENATOR WON'T BE BOUND BY ACTION OF TUESDAY.

Upper House Develops Ugly Temper When Bills Are Placed on Third Reading.—Three Killed.

Special to The Gazette

DENVER, Feb. 13.—Senator Parks of Denver this morning defied the Republican caucus, declaring that he would not be bound by the action of Tuesday, which had agreed upon a railway commission bill drawn in accordance with the ideas of Governor Buchtel. His main objection to the bill was on the ground that it would accomplish nothing; he wanted something that would be effective.

The senator made an impassioned address, declaring that the other Republican senators were not in favor of real railway legislation, but were trying to get something that would do no good of any kind. Mr. Parks made the excuse for his address the fact that he had been named on the "steering committee" which is to go over all the laws proposed by the caucus, whip them into shape and try to keep members in line. Other senators attacked the position taken by the [illegible] ator, stating that he was trying to defeat any legislation at all by trying to force a bill that would be so radical as to be ineffective.

Senator Stephen introduced a resolution providing for a memorial to congress appealing against any reduction in the appropriations for the railway mail service. He said that the service needed all the money it now gets and more.

Senate Develops Ugly Temper.

When it came to third readings, the senate developed an ugly temper. It killed three bills that had been thought to have good chances of passing. The most important of these was the Laton libel bill, that went through the house flying. No objection worthy of note appeared when the bill passed second reading, but between that time and today the enemies of the bill had been active. Only six senators could be found to vote for it, one of these being Senator De La Vergne. The bill for a constitutional amendment to permit the University of Colorado to maintain its medical department in Denver failed to receive the required two-thirds vote, without which a constitutional amendment can not pass. Senator Taylor's bill to prevent gerrymandering to districting the state for the election of senators and representatives was killed by a tie vote of 16 to 16.

Senator Taylor, after the massacre of the other bills, asked that his measure to change the name of the Grand river to Colorado river be passed over for the time. His reason was that an unexpected opposition had developed among the people from his part of the state, and he wished to ascertain just how great the opposition was.

Senator De La Vergne's bill in relation to the terms of park commissioners in cities of the first and second class passed third reading. Also Sen-

House in Committee of the Whole

The house passed one bill on third reading to permit Jefferson county to give a certain strip of territory to Park county. The balance of the day was spent in committee of the whole considering bills on second reading. Those passed were: Dray's bill to permit the governor to go outside the state without losing part of his salary; Collins' bill to permit district attorneys in counties of the second class to collect fees whether or not conviction is secured.

A long discussion was had over the bill, presented by Mr. Parrish, to redivide the state in judicial districts. There was a general opposition shown by the Democratic members, but the particular objection was made by the Pueblo delegation. In the bill, Pueblo is made a district by itself. The Pueblo representatives insisted that Otero county should be added to the district. The bill provides that the Fourth district shall consist of Douglas, Elbert, Cheyenne, El Paso, Lincoln, El Paso and Teller counties.

UP TO CONGRESS

SETTLEMENT OF JAP PROBLEM SEEMS CERTAIN.

FAVORABLE ACTION PROBABLE

AMENDMENT TO IMMIGRATION BILL HOLDS SOLUTION.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE FRIDAY

President Hopes to Assure California Delegation That Desired Legislation Will Be Passed at Present Session—Exclusion of Foreigners Detrimental to Labor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The Japanese school controversy is settled insofar as President Roosevelt, Mayor Schmitz and the members of the San Francisco school board are concerned. An amicable adjustment of the question now rests with congress. If the amendment to the immigration bill proposed by Secretary Root excluding foreigners who use their passports to gain admission to the United States "to the detriment of labor conditions in this country," is accepted by the senate and house, and the immigration bill is passed at this session of congress, the San Francisco board of education will rescind its order establishing the oriental schools, unless the Japanese government agrees to a proposition for separate schools which will provide equal facilities for the Japanese children.

Mayor Schmitz and his associates conferred with the president today and assured Mr. Roosevelt that the amendment to the immigration bill was entirely satisfactory to them. Secretary Root participated in the conference and made a report on his negotiations with the Republican leaders in congress and the Japanese ambassador. While the Californians are still hopeful that Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador, will agree to separate schools in California, they stand willing to rescind the order establishing the oriental schools and again admit Japanese children to the white schools.

Argues for Separate Schools.

Mayor Schmitz today pointed out to President Roosevelt and Secretary Root the advantages that will be gained by the Japanese children if the oriental schools are maintained and expressed a willingness to give the Japanese equal educational facilities to those given the white children of San Francisco. If the Japanese government will agree to this proposition the school board will establish a sufficient number of oriental school houses to accommodate the Japanese and will give the children individual instruction. Mayor Schmitz says the Japanese make faster progress in the oriental schools than they do in the white schools and that in the mixed schools the Japanese only retard the white children's progress.

Another conference will be held at the White house Friday, and in the meantime President Roosevelt hopes to be able to assure Mayor Schmitz and his associates that the immigration bill, including the exclusion amendment, will be passed at this session of congress.

Secretary Root will ascertain Japan's attitude on Mayor Schmitz's proposition for separate schools and the mayor's assurance that the Japanese are not to be discriminated against, but are to have equal educational advantages with the white children. If the proposition does not meet with Ambassador Aoki's views, the school board will abolish the oriental schools. All that may prevent an amicable settlement on the whole question Friday will be the unwillingness of congress to pass the immigration bill.

Schmitz Satisfied.

In discussing the matter tonight, Mayor Schmitz said: "The proposed amendment to the immigration bill meets with our approval so far as the question of excluding coolie labor is concerned. It is a step in the right direction. But the school question has not been definitely settled, and I do not want it understood that we have accepted the immigration clause as a price to recede in the school controversy. While, as I have said all along, we are willing to make concessions that we believe for the good of the country, we want to reach an agreement if possible for the maintenance of the separate schools with an understanding that the Japanese are to have the same facilities as the white children. We stand willing to build additional school houses in sections of the city where they will be convenient to the Japanese children. We hope to reach an agreement at Friday's conference that will provide for separate schools. One thing is certain, we will never agree to admit adult Japanese to the white schools. I believe an agreement will be reached Friday."

The provision in the immigration bill conference report restricts the use of passports granted by foreign countries for admission of their subjects into the outlying possessions of the United States, including the Panama canal zone. The California situation is regarded with favor by the senators and representatives in congress from that state. However, it is not held that the provision satisfies the demand California has made regarding the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. Nothing in the provision excludes such laborers from ports of the United States.

The congressional delegation from California is in the attitude of having Mayor Schmitz and the San Francisco school board as intermediaries in the negotiations with the president. The delegation is keeping in close touch with the situation through the mayor and board.

NO CONCLUSION ANNOUNCED

Another Conference on Awarding of Panama Contract Is Held.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Another conference on awarding the Panama canal contract was held at the White house today. J. B. McDonald and John Pierce, both of New York, associated with J. W. Oliver in his bid for the work were present and were consulted by President Roosevelt regarding their experience in handling large contracts. No conclusion was announced. Further conferences are expected in which the president and his advisers will consult with others associated with Mr. Oliver. The next conference, it was announced, will take place next Tuesday. During today's session, General Alex. MacKenzie, chief of engineers, was called upon by the president for some information respecting the professional ability of some of the contractors who have been associated with Mr. Oliver, and was also called upon to detail their records as contractors with the government.

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

FOUR ARE KILLED IN LOS ANGELES RESTAURANT.

Number of Others Seriously Injured. Building Is Wrecked—Gas Leak Is Cause.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 13.—An explosion of leaking gas in a restaurant near the corner of Second and Main streets, in the heart of the city today, killed three persons, mangled and seriously injured half a dozen others, slightly injured nearly a score and completely wrecked a two-story brick building, in which were located four small business concerns. The explosion occurred in the restaurant of B. Cossart, 114-116 West Second street, shortly before noon. The restaurant was completely wrecked as was also the tailoring establishment of H. L. Yerger and a small laundry office.

The dead:

JOHN W. MAIN, aged 56, rancher.
LAVONNE MEYERS, waitress.
ANNIE CRAWFORD, waitress.
J. M'FUENTES, tailor, aged 4[illegible].

Of the injured, Charles Blumenthal and James Fuentes will probably die. Miss May Anderson, a waitress, was so badly hurt that it was necessary to amputate both legs.

The exact cause of the explosion is as yet unknown, but it is believed that the gas was ignited by an employe of the gas company who was searching in the basement for a leak.

TOOK OVER HALF A MILLION

Treasurer of Connecticut Bank Gets Away With Big Amount—Commissioner Kendall Incompetent.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 13.—More than half a million dollars worth of securities were taken from the vaults of the Savings bank of New Britain by the missing treasurer, William F. Walker, according to a statement issued today by the board of directors of the institution. There is still a surplus of about $[illegible] above the amount due to depositors. The directors believe the greater part of the securities will be recovered.

Mayor George M. Landers has sent a letter to Governor Woodruff, asking that Commissioner Kendall be removed from office on the ground of neglect of duty and incompetency. He pointed out in this letter that when Mr. Kendall began an examination of the affairs of the bank, last Thursday, Treasurer Walker, on a plea of illness, left the bank, and Commissioner Walker did not continue his work, but returned home to await Walker's convenience, knowing at the time that the latter did not return home that day.

ASKS FOR DELAY OF ACTION

Denver Real Estate Exchange Opposes Immediate Segregation of Public Lands.

DENVER, Feb. 13.—The Denver Real Estate exchange adopted a resolution calling upon the state authorities and the Colorado representatives in congress to make representations to the federal authorities looking to delay of action on the proposition for the segregation of unclaimed public land under a system of leasing.

The opposition of the exchange is primarily against the proposition of classifying this land as grazing or agricultural land, as such a classification, it is declared, cannot be accurately made at the present time.

Experiments are now being made which will decide the value of these lands, but it will take several years to complete these experiments and until they are completed the exchange asks that their official classification be held in abeyance.

UPRISING IN THE PHILIPPINES

Two Towns Destroyed in Province of Occidental Negros—Two American Teachers Missing.

MANILA, Feb. 14.—Pulajanes attacked and burned two towns in the province of Occidental Negros yesterday and killed six members of the constabulary. Two American teachers, W. J. Bachelder and Walter J. Ise are reported to be missing.

No cause is known for the sudden uprising. Raids were made within a radius of ten miles and schools were first attacked and burned in both instances. The province of Occidental Negros has been free from disturbances for four years. It is believed that the raiders were mountaineers, venting their hereditary enmity against the coast towns.

MAY BE MISTRIAL

WIFE OF BOLTON, THAW JUROR, CRITICALLY ILL.

MORNING SESSION ABANDONED

INDEFINITE POSTPONEMENT IS AMONG POSSIBILITIES.

EVANS CONTINUES TESTIMONY

Remarks Thaw's Extraordinary Pulse Action—Will of Defendant in Hands of Jerome—May Again Be Offered by Delmas Today as Evidence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The Thaw trial today was limited to an afternoon session of less than two hours duration, the morning session having been abandoned because of the illness of the wife of Juror Joseph H. Bolton. The juror was allowed to visit his home in company with two other jurors and two court officers. He found his wife suffering from double pneumonia, and two physicians certified that her condition was very serious. Bolton returned to the jury panel in time for the afternoon session, which began at 2:10 p. m. and adjourned at 4:05 o'clock. There was a stipulation of counsel by which the juror might again visit his home, accompanied by bailiffs tonight.

Possibility of Mistrial.

Juror Bolton this afternoon appeared distrait, apparently taking little interest in the proceedings. If Mrs. Bolton's condition should continue so critical that her husband cannot be expected to give proper consideration to his duties as a juror, there may be an indefinite postponement—all the jurors meanwhile remaining locked up—or possibly a mistrial.

At the home of Juror Bolton tonight the physicians said Mrs. Bolton had reached the crisis of her illness. If she survived the night, he said, and no further complications arose, it was altogether probable she would recover. Juror Bolton, accompanied by two officers went to his home tonight and spent 45 minutes with his wife. He then returned to the hotel where the jurors are staying.

Dr. Britton D. Evans, superintendent of the State Hospital of Insane at Morris Plains, N. J., gave the only testimony today. He concluded his direct examination and District Attorney Jerome reserved the right to cross question the expert later.

Dr. John D. Demar of Kittanning, Pa., was recalled just before adjournment and asked to state what he knew of the mental condition of John Ross, first cousin of Harry K. Thaw. Mr. Jerome objected to the question on the ground that the relationship was too remote to permit the drawing of deductions as to hereditary insanity. Both question and witness were withdrawn temporarily.

Dr. Evans today detailed the results of his various examinations and physical tests in his visits to the defendant following the tragedy. He declared that there was a deep depression in the back of Thaw's head of a most unusual character but was unable to state its significance.

Thaw's Pulse Action Extraordinary.

Dr. Evans said Thaw's pulse action was the most extraordinary he had ever encountered. The pulse would change beats four times within one minute, the variance being from 12 to 24 beats. The pulse indicated, he said, that the sympathetic nervous system was seriously at fault. Dr. Evans declared he found no traces of drug habits nor any of the tremors characteristic of excessive indulgence in intoxicants.

Dr. Evans said he felt it was extremely unfair to him as a physician to require him to separate his physical examination of the defendant from the questions and answers as to his mental processes. He was interrupted by both Mr. Jerome and Mr. Delmas and Justice Fitzgerald said:

"Will you kindly confine yourself to answering questions and not giving expressions of opinion. There is some limitation even to the province of an expert."

As the result of a conference between counsel just before adjournment Mr. Jerome said Thaw's attorneys had turned the will of the defendant over to him for examination before it should again be formally offered in evidence. Mr. Jerome said he might or might not offer further objection to it. He did not wish to take up the time by reading it over in court.

Counsel also agreed that Mr. Jerome should have the privilege of talking freely with Dr. Demar and with Dr. Bingaman the Thaw family physician, about certain testimony they may offer. Mr. Jerome said if he knew the nature of this testimony he might not have to occupy so much time and crowd the records with technical objections. In order to give him the opportunity to learn the nature of their testimony and to expedite the trial, the early adjournment today was ordered.

Will Again to Be Offered

Tomorrow, Mr. Delmas will offer the will in evidence. If it is accepted it will be read to the jury. If it is not accepted by consent of the district attorney, there is likely to be an extended argument. Following the disposition of the will, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will resume the stand.

Trial Resumes.

Juror Bolton returned to his place this afternoon and at 2:10 the trial was resumed.

Harry Thaw came into court with an air of confidence.

Dr. Evans' direct examination was resumed.

"Doctor," began Mr. Delmas, "taking the facts gathered by you during the eight visits you made to Mr. Thaw and the facts embodied in my hypothetical question, when did the manifestations of insanity take place?"

Mr. Jerome objected on the ground that Dr. Evans had not stated the results of his tests, or the manner in which they were applied.

Justice Fitzgerald said he upheld the objection to call facts on which the opinion was based.

Mr. Delmas thereupon took up the various points of the physical examination, one after another, asking Dr. Evans to explain the method and result of each.

Dr. Evans testified first as to the general condition of Thaw's body as to nutrition, and said it was good. The condition of the skin also was good.

The results of the tests of the reflexes, the doctor explained. Explaining the reflexes known as knee jerk and tickling of the feet, he said that in the latter test there seemed to be unusual sensitiveness. Thaw's pupils responded normally to the tests of light and distance.

Dr. Evans next gave the details of his numerous examinations of Thaw's pulse.

Remarkable Pulse.

"He exhibited the most remarkable nervous pulse it has ever been my opportunity to examine," said the alienist. "The pulse indicated a nervous control of the heart, showing the sympathetic nervous system to be seriously at fault. The irregularity of the heart was evidenced by the pulse changing its rate four times within a minute, the variance being 12 to 24 beats. I have never before known a heart to act that way. I have known the pulse to change once in a minute.

BURLINGTON WINS OUT

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE CASE IS DECIDED.

Transcontinental Mail Will Continue to Be Forwarded West From Chicago as Formerly.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—It is announced at the postoffice department today that the transcontinental mail will continue to be forwarded by way of the Burlington route.

In this brief official statement is made known the decision of Postmaster General Cortelyou in a railway mail service case that has attracted attention throughout the country.

For many years the Burlington route has carried the transcontinental mail from Chicago west. It has been the practice to transfer across the city of Chicago these mails from the Lake Shore line to the Burlington station. The expense of this transfer, which fell on the postoffice, was considerable in the aggregate.

A few months ago the Rock Island road, desiring to obtain the contract for carrying the transcontinental mail to Omaha and other points west of Chicago, suggested to the postoffice that the mails be turned over to it from the Lake Shore road at Englewood, a few miles this side of Chicago. Officials of the Rock Island argued that, by this arrangement the cost of transfer of the mails across Chicago could be saved and in addition, the cost of carrying the mails to Omaha would be less by the Rock Island than by the Burlington, because the former is a land grant line and, under the law the cost of carrying the mails on such a line is less than it is over other lines.

The question has been threshed out by officials of the postoffice department for many weeks.

The Burlington, Rock Island and other lines interested have had representatives in Washington presenting to the postmaster general and other officials of the department, all of the data which possibly could have a bearing on the question. About ten days ago it was announced semiofficially that the Burlington route and the Lake Shore officials had formulated a plan to transfer the mails across Chicago in solid cars without expense to the government. This proposition was well received by the department officials, as they did not care to make a change in the system of handling the transcontinental mails unless it should appear that the margin of expense was too great in favor of the Burlington.

The representatives of the Rock Island pressed their claims vigorously, urging that even if the Burlington and Lake Shore had met their rate by eliminating the cost of transferring the mails across Chicago, they yet were able to carry the mails at a less cost than the Burlington because their line is a land grant road. Finally, the representative of the Burlington, in order to eliminate the land grant feature from the arguments, agreed to meet absolutely the Rock Island rate from Chicago westward. This was made the basis of the postmaster general's decision.

991 BILLS PASSED

U. S. SENATE ESTABLISHES A NEW RECORD.

QUICK WORK AT NIGHT SESSION

MEASURES ADOPTED AT RATE OF FIFTEEN A MINUTE.

MESSAGE ON PUBLIC LANDS

President Urges Consideration of Legislation Affecting Different Phases of Situation—Conservation of Fuel Resources Is Advocated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The first night session of the senate during the present session was held tonight to consider private pension bills. All records were broken by passing bills at the rate of 15 a minute for one hour and six minutes—991 bills in all. During the procedure Senator McCumber, who is the only senator on the floor, Vice President Fairbanks presided.

The senate today passed the bill giving the government the right to appeal to the supreme court for a construction of the constitutionality of any law involved in a criminal suit. The measure has been under consideration for several days and was passed only after many amendments had been adopted at the suggestion of senators who have criticised the provisions of the bill.

It was explained that the amendments did not in any instance detract from the original purpose of the bill, but that they were intended to provide means whereby the government could get a ruling on the constitutionality of a criminal law by the supreme court with as little hardship on any particular defendant as was possible.

The District of Columbia appropriation bill, carrying nearly eleven million dollars, was passed after an hour's consideration.

The conference report on the immigration bill was read, but action deferred.

The agricultural appropriation bill was reported to the senate today, and notice was given by Senator Proctor that the bill will be called for action tomorrow.

Agricultural Bill.

As reported from the committee on agriculture, the bill carries an increase over that allowed by the house in the appropriations for the agricultural department proper of $[illegible] and of $[illegible] 000 in the appropriation for the forestry service, bringing the total forestry appropriation up to $1,000,000 and the grand total of the bill to $[illegible]. The principal items of increase outside of the forestry service are $35,000 for experiment stations, $25,000 for grain grading investigations, $30,000 for soil investigations, and $25,000 for experiments in animal breeding. The appropriation for the maintenance of the forestry service is regarded by the committee in the light of a loan, as it is promised by the forestry officials that the money shall be refunded from the receipts of the bureau.

The Tawney amendment, providing that no salaries shall be paid to state employes in the administration of the pure food laws, was altered to provide that "any part of the appropriation used for compensation or expenses to any officer employed by any state, county or municipal government, shall be reported to congress in detail."

The house appropriation of $[illegible] for free seeds was not disturbed.

The provision for the leasing of grazing lands in the public domain was not changed from the form in which it was agreed on yesterday.

Message From President Read.

A message from President Roosevelt urging consideration of legislation affecting the public lands, was read. The president calls attention to what he terms "the urgent need of legislation affecting the different phases of the public land situation in the United States."

He advocates the conservation of coal and other fuel resources on government lands, urges government control of the western public land ranges with a system of leasing grazing lands, and asks for an appropriation of half a million dollars to aid in detecting and preventing land frauds. He contends for a system of government leasing of its mineral lands and for treating these fuel lands as public utilities.

The president points out that it would have been better in some instances if coal lands had been left under government control and suggests provision in the west against recurrence of the conditions we deplore in the east," citing instances of public land entries in four districts mentioned, the president says, non-compliance with the law was found in over half and fraud in many others.

Asks for Special Legislation.

The president asks for legislation which will provide two distinct titles to public lands—one for the surface and the other for the underlying minerals. These mineral lands the president would dispose of by lease. The details of this plan he leaves for congress to work out, only arguing for the adoption of the plan.

Instances of successful leasing of such lands by foreign governments are cited by the president and he argues at length for the separate development of farming and mining on American land.

Foreign practice also is cited as reason why mineral fuels, like forests and navigable streams, should be treated as public utilities.

In this way can the rights of future generations adequately be protected. The [illegible] the west is relatively smaller than [illegible] ests, and its preservation should be the subject of the wisest legislation. Ultimately these rich lands will pass [illegible] but Mr. Thaw's pulse would start the first quarter of a minute at 64 beats and in the next fifteen seconds would run to 112 or more. It would then change to ninety and back to eighty or eighty-two. I took his pulse many times and noticed this variance on every occasion.

"Fearing sometimes that the exertion of the physical examination had tired him, I tried to compose his mind and then took his pulse with the same result.

"This led me to examine his heart, which I found in the same irregularity as the pulse.

"I examined the heart for murmurs or evidence of valvular troubles, but found none."

After a careful examination the doctor said he found no evidences of abnormal muscular incoordination.

No indications were found of any evidences of the drug habit.

Dr. Evans also declared that Thaw exhibited none of the tremors such as are found in persons who have been addicted for a long time to an excessive use of intoxicants.

No signs of diseases of the spinal cord were found, nor were there found spots of anæsthesia on the body. The tests of suggestion were not successful, Thaw wandering off in his conversation and failing to follow the suggestions offered.

During the examination he was very nervous and unnecessarily apprehensive. He appeared to be very tired.

"His power of perception was good," said Dr. Evans, "but it operated under his own peculiar will. There were periods of mental abstraction, during which our questions were ignored by Thaw. When he so willed it, however, his perceptive power seemed all right."

Dr. Evans was asked to state the general rule in detecting hereditary insanity as associated with epilepsy.

"I can state my own rules," said Dr. Evans, "but there may be differences of opinion. My rule is based on experience and I can say that in a general way it is a general rule among men of science. Epileptics beget epileptics and persons predisposed to all the various forms of insanity. The children of epileptics have what we call a physiopathic taint. The taint passes from generation to generation. Sometimes it skips a generation and springs up in collateral branches of a family. Where there is epilepsy in a family there is likely to be found mental derangement. Epilepsy, insanity and idiocy are closely allied."

"What do you mean by collateral branches of a family?"

"Not the direct line of descent. Where an uncle or aunt has manifested insanity it is reasonable to assume insanity has come as a heritage."

"The fact that a first cousin is insane would be a significant factor in determining the mental condition of a person?"

"Yes, in taking a patient's family history, that fact could not be ignored."

This concluded the direct examination.

John Deemer of Kittanning, Pa., was then recalled as a witness. He was asked if he could state the mental condition of John Ross, a first cousin of Harry Thaw, but on an objection of Mr. Jerome he was not allowed to answer.

At this point there was a conference between the attorneys as the result of which Mr. Jerome announced that Mr. Delmas had submitted to him for final examination before it finally should be offered in evidence again, the will of Harry Thaw.

"It may be," said Mr. Jerome, "that after I read the document I will consent to its going into the record. On the other hand, I may oppose it, in. proceed with the examination of it at this time it would take up the time of the court uselessly. I will examine it in my office."

Justice Fitzgerald at 4.05 p. m. ordered an adjournment until tomorrow.

TWO SISTERS HAVE ECZEMA OF HEAD

Two Illinois Girls Suffer from Scalp Trouble—Another Sister Needs a Tonic. Friend Suggests Cuticura—They Use It and Now Give

MUCH PRAISE TO ALL CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I must give much praise to all the Cuticura Remedies. I used but one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment, as that was all that was required to cure my disease. I was very much troubled with eczema of the head, and a friend of mine told me to use the Cuticura Remedies, which I did, and am glad to say that they cured my eczema entirely. Since then we have always kept the soap on hand at all times. My sister was also cured of eczema of the head by using the Cuticura Remedies. Another sister has used Cuticura Resolvent Pills and thinks they are a splendid tonic. I cannot say exactly how long I suffered, but I think about six months. Miss Edith Hammer, R. F. D. No. 6, Morrison, Ill., Oct. 3, 1906."

SCORE ONE FOR STEVE ADAMS

Wallace Merchant Ordered to Draw New Venire of Jurors— Former Panel Exhausted.

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 13.—The struggle of Steve Adams' attorneys to save him from conviction for the murder of Fred Tyler was still centered in the efforts of the defense to disqualify the sheriff when court opened at Wallace, Idaho, at 10 o'clock this morning. The defense pointed out that Sheriff Bailey and his deputies should not be permitted to handle the special venire of jurors, because of animosity to the prisoner.

This claim was supported by a lengthy affidavit by Steve Adams, declaring that the present sheriff was elected with the express understanding that ex-Sheriff Sutherland should control his office; and that if Sutherland should control the venire "only those will be called into service whose feelings are well known to be against the Western Federation members."

The state filed a lengthy affidavit by Sheriff Bailey denying the allegations made by Steve Adams. The sheriff declared that he was duly elected to his office and denied that there was ever any understanding or agreement that ex-Sheriff Sutherland should have control of his office in any manner or for any purpose or that any such agreement was made under the direction of corporation having any antipathy whatever to the Western Federation of Miners or its members.

Affidavit was filed by former Sheriff Sutherland, who is now deputy sheriff, making absolute denial of the charges made in the affidavit of Steve Adams. Sutherland denied that on the trip from Boise to Wallace which is charged Adams he had referred to the members of the Western Federation of Miners as outlaws, thugs and dynamiters in any way other than he at all times, as was his duty as sheriff, expressed detestation for acts of dynamiting with which members of the organization were charged. He admitted that he arranged a meeting between Adams and Detective McDonald, but stated that he did so upon request and in the performance of his duty as sheriff in the prosecution of crime. The defense made its points late this afternoon when it succeeded in compelling Wallace merchant, to draw a new venire of jurors as the former panel had been exhausted.

No actual progress in securing a jury was made today.

Judge Woods in passing on the motion, said that he believed the sheriff's office was entitled to consideration for the manner in which its members had conducted themselves all through the Adams case. He did not think that any of them were biased and did not believe the management of an officer would cast any reflection on them. He wanted all sides to feel that a fair and impartial jury had been given, and therefore that he would appoint O. D. Jones of the sheriff's office. The appointment is satisfactory to both the defense and the prosecution.

Attorney Hanson charged that the name of W. B. Hopkins had been added to the information and a warrant issued for his arrest whether the case be tried now or at a later date he passes. Arrangements on this point are to be heard tomorrow morning. Hopkins is said to be the stenographer who took notes of the alleged confession of Adams.

"ONLY CATS AND DOGS FIGHT"

Representative Cooke Makes Reference to Bailey's Statement Regarding Men Bringing Charges.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 13.—If I am not mistaken Senator Bailey called me a liar. Only cats and dogs fight and bullies browbeat."

Representative Cooke referred today to Senator Bailey's statement before the legislative investigation committee, in which the senator denounced the men bringing the charges against him.

A message from J. D. Johnson, attorney of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, stating that the Waters-Pierce books and witnesses left St. Louis today and should arrive in Austin Thursday night, was read by Chairman O'Neill. It was decided that the St. Louis witnesses should remain here until Monday to allow the subcommittee which anticipated being in St. Louis, an opportunity to be present at the examination. Former Auditor Gruet of the Waters-Pierce Oil company and his son, who have already testified, have been asked to return to Washington at once.

federal control and future generations will be deprived of their birthright unless this leasing system be adopted. By leasing the mineral rights, the government can exercise a healthy control, the good effects of which will best be noted in the future.

Answering the charge that reservation of national forest raises the price of lumber in the west, the president says:

"It should be remembered that the best and most accessible bodies of timber in the west passed into private holdings before the forest reserves were established; that while the price of timber has advanced in the west it has advanced still more in the east, where there are no forest reserves; that supplies of timber are today being shipped from the west to the markets of the Mississippi valley and even to foreign countries.

"It may be fairly claimed among the advantages of the leasing system that: (1) It will facilitate the working of coal deposits for local markets by miners without large capital; (2) It will facilitate larger operations; (3) Prevent waste in the extraction and handling of these fuels; (4) The system will be operated in such manner as to prevent the evils of monopolistic control. (5) It will permit the government to reserve from general use fuels especially suitable for special industrials and, (6) It will enable the government to protect the public against unreasonable and discriminating charges for fuel supplies."

The president urges care in the disposal of these mineral land interests, foreseeing a time when the so-called inexhaustible resources will be taxed to meet their capacity in supplying the demand.

The president urges congress may prevent the coal lands of the west from getting entirely into control of the corporations, as have the eastern anthracite lands.

Government control of western pasture lands is urged on the same general principles now applying to government control of the forest reserve. Only through revenue from the range to pay for its administration and improvement would be sufficient, the message urges. More special land agents are urgently requested.

his home after having been a runaway for nearly a year, contained the first direct charges against Captain McVey and his crew. Hiergesell declares that Captain McVey's boat was the first which left the sinking steamer. He said he saw many women on the hurricane deck rushing about and begging for life preservers. Many women pleaded in vain with passengers and crew to direct them to lifeboats.

"My stateroom was almost at the point of the collision on the port side," he said. "I was in bed with my clothes on and when I rushed on deck I found the officers reassuring the passengers and telling them they were in no immediate danger. The captain left the steamer in the very first boat. The second boat was taken possession of by a gang of negro waiters. These men seemed to have lost their heads and so many of them crowded into the boat that it capsized as soon as it struck the water and I believe that all were lost.

Drifted With the Wind.

"I got into the third boat with five other men. There were no oars in the boat and we were obliged to drift with the wind and the waves. We drifted for several hours and when we were near land a big wave capsized the boat. The five men who were with me were drowned, but as soon as I struck the water I began to swim, and although my hands were terribly frozen and my feet like lead, I succeeded in reaching the beach, where someone dragged me out of the water.

"It was an awful sight on the hurricane deck of the steamer. I saw a lot of women running around helplessly calling for life preservers and begging that they be directed to the lifeboats, but no one paid any attention to them and they were absolutely neglected.

"I did not see many life preservers around. As I left the ship many people were jumping overboard, just as the steamer began to slip beneath the waves."

Faith in God Saves Man.

David D. Fox of Bridgeton, N. J., declared his sublime faith in God saved himself and others. Mr. Fox was returning from a Bible convention at Beverly, Mass. He was on the same piece of wreckage as that which carried the Feldmans away. He said that his whole experience was so appalling that he found it impossible to drive it from his mind. As soon as the raft reached the water the despair of all on board seemed to become so general that he spent his entire time begging them to have faith in God.

Antonio Riczukowicz of Central Falls, R. I., entered a lifeboat with eight other men. The boat had scarcely touched the water when it turned partially over, throwing all the occupants into the water. All but Riczukowicz seemed to have been frozen to death and fallen overboard for he was unable to find a trace of them. He swam to a boat and climbed in. He said he did not remember how he was saved. Finally he dropped into the bottom of the boat. When he awoke he was at Block Island.

Praises Crew.

Oscar A. Young, purser of the Larchmont, praised the crew. He said there were eight lifeboats and four rafts on board and when the collision occurred every man went to his station and did all in his power to save the lives of the passengers.

A pathetic story of father and son sitting side by side in the lifeboat, one of them surviving and the other perishing, was told by James Flood, 45 years old, of New York. Flood entered a lifeboat and at his side sat his son, Nathan, 24 years old. The father picked up an oar and rowed throughout the night, occasionally stopping to beg his boy to move his limbs and stave off death. Nathan, however, seemed to be in a stupor, and while the father rowed the son, frozen to his seat, expired.

Captain McVey, commander of the Larchmont, when seen at an early hour this morning regarding the statement made by Fred Hiergesell, admitted that it was probable that his lifeboat was one of the first to leave the sinking ship. He explained, however, that this was due to the fact that a seaman cut the hurricane deck canvas rope, but even after the boat was in the water, he remained by the ship until she went down.

WOMEN GIVE POLICE TROUBLE

Suffragists Again Invade Parliament and Many Are Arrested—Officers Needlessly Brutal.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The women suffragists, whose leaders have sworn not to desist in their violent agitation until parliament has granted their demands, appear likely to give the authorities considerable trouble. They made today a more determined and better organized demonstration than ever before, in the course of which more than 60 women were arrested. It was many minutes before they all secured bail.

From an early hour this afternoon until 10 o'clock tonight a large force of police had their hands full in defending the precincts of parliament. Every entrance to the house of commons was guarded by detachments of policemen, while other officers of the law were engaged in clearing the adjacent streets and a body of 50 constables was kept in reserve for emergency.

Miss Alice Kenny, one of the leaders, who has been imprisoned three times, declares that if woman suffrage is not granted this session she will march 1,000 women colliery operatives from the north who will confront the ministers on the floor of the house of commons.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The Tribune and other papers complain this morning that the police were needlessly brutal in dispersing the woman suffragists yesterday. It is declared that more than 500 police were employed to restrain the women, that many innocent persons suffered by the charges of the mounted men and that the suffragists in many cases themselves were badly mauled.

FREIGHT TOO HIGH ON BEER

Leadville Firm Plaintiff in Suit Against M. P. and D. & R. G.

DENVER, Feb. 13.—Charged with exacting a higher tariff on beer shipments from St. Louis to Leadville, Colo., than to Salt Lake City, the Missouri Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande railways were made defendants in a suit for $6,631 damages filed in the federal court here today. The Eilers Bros. Mercantile company of Leadville, is the plaintiff. It is alleged in the complaint that while a rate of 70 cents per 100 pounds in carload lots from St. Louis to Salt Lake has been given, the rate from St. Louis to Leadville has been $1.8[illegible].

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 13.—Abe Hoskins and Bud Louge, convicts, engaged in a fight at the bottom of the Kansas penitentiary coal shaft at Lansing today, and Hoskins was so seriously wounded that he will die. Louge was attacked with a hatchet.

MINERS LAID OFF IN BISBEE

It Is Believed Western Federation Organizers Are the Cause of Action.

BISBEE, Ariz., Feb. 13.—Several hundred miners were laid off in Bisbee today. The reason given the men was that there was a shortage in fuel and lumber and that in order to make some necessary repairs it was decided to close down some of the shafts. Today the Big Spray shaft of the Copper Queen company was idle. This is one of the big producing shafts of the district and employs about 500 men. The announcement is made that in all probability the Czar shaft will be idle tomorrow. It is generally believed that the situation is directly due to the attempt being made by organizers of the Western Federation of Miners to make Bisbee a union camp. The officials of the company, however, refuse to admit that this is the reason of the company's action. The men laid off are leaving for other camps in Mexico and Nevada.

John Berry and William Edwards, landscape gardeners employed by General Palmer, will go to Canon City today to confer with the officers of the Canon City Civic Improvement league.

Sleep And Rest

Every movement of the body consumes energy. So does mental effort. Energy is supplied by the nerves. It follows that physical or mental exhaustion simply means an over-draft on the nerves. Nature restores energy through rest and sleep. You cannot sleep with tired nerves. Dr. Miles' Nervine soothes the irritation and restores nervous energy.

"Although I have lived nearly 78 years, I have stood up against testimonials for publication, but the unequaled excellence of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, as a medicine for inherent insomnia, intensified by long residence in a high altitude compell me to recognize its superiority over every other medicine I have ever used for nervousness and sleeplessness. I feel sure that the Nervine is free from injurious opiates found in most medicines for insomnia, and can conscientiously recommend it to the aged and nervous." MRS. W. H. FREEMAN, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

COLLEGE GETS BIRDS

AIKEN'S COLLECTION GIVEN TO SPRINGS INSTITUTION.

General Palmer Furnishes 5,000 Specimens of Feathered Tribe for Benefit of Students.

Through the generosity of General Palmer, Mr. C. E. Aiken's valuable collection of birds has become the property of the Colorado college museum. The collection includes about 5,000 specimens, embracing about 500 species and sub-species, and is especially rich in Colorado and Rocky Mountain birds. Mr. Aiken has been at work making [illegible] that is to say, ever since he came to Colorado Springs in the year 1871. Mr. Aiken is a well-known taxidermist of this city, and is one of the most prominent ornithologists in the country.

Out of 780 species of birds recorded from the state of Colorado, Mr. Aiken's collection contains about 450 species and is very probably by far the most complete that has ever been made, so far as Colorado is concerned. The collection illustrates in many of the species variations due to sex, age, season and locality, and some of the most important reports written on the birds of Colorado have been based on the specimens in this collection.

It is, of course, of the greatest importance that such a collection as this, the life work of one of the greatest authorities on the birds of Colorado, should be kept intact and deposited in some public institution in Colorado, and it is particularly fitting that this depository should be in Colorado Springs, with which place Mr. Aiken has been connected for so many years. General Palmer's far-reaching generosity has made this possible. Under the arangements made, Mr. Aiken will prepare for exhibition at the Colorado college museum a set of Colorado birds, while the bulk of the collection will remain in the form of a "study" series stored in cabinets for the use of students of natural history.

The collection includes the proceeds of a seven months' expedition in Arizona by Mr. Aiken, together with the results of a trip to southern New Mexico, southern California and Arizona, made by a man in Mr. Aiken's employ. This trip occupied three years.

Charcoal Stops Gas On Your Stomach

Wonderful Absorbing Power of Charcoal When Taken in the Form of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trial Package Sent Free

[illegible] absorb 500 times its own volume of gas. Where does the gas go to? It is just absorbed by the charcoal—the gas disappears and there is left a pure, fresh, sweet atmosphere, free from all impurities and germs.

That's what happens in your stomach when you take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful purifiers science has yet uncovered.

You belch gas in company, sometimes to material, greatly to your own humiliation. That is because there is a great amount of gas being formed in your stomach by fermenting food. Your stomach is not digesting your food properly. Gas is inevitable. Whenever this happens, just take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges right after eating, and you will be surprised how quickly they will act. No more belchings, no more sour risings. Eat all you want and what you want, and then if there is any gas going to be formed, one of these wonderful little absorbers, a Stuart Charcoal Lozenge, will take care of all the gas.

And it will do more than that. Every particle of impurity in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away by the charcoal. No one seems to know why it does this, but it does, and does it wonderfully. You notice the difference in your appetite, general good feeling, and in the purity of your blood, right away.

You'll have no more bad taste in your mouth or bad breath, either from drinking, eating or smoking. Other people will notice your bad breath quicker than you will yourself. Make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, so when you talk to others you won't disgust them. Just one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges will make your breath sweet, and make you feel better all over for it. You can eat all the onions and odorous foods you want, and no one can tell the difference.

Besides, charcoal is the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

And then, too, it filters your blood, every particle of poison or impurity in your blood is destroyed, and you begin to notice the difference in your face first thing—your clear complexion.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal, and just a little honey is put in to make them palatable, but not too sweet.

They will work wonders in your stomach, and make you feel fine and fresh. Your blood and breath will be purified.

We want to prove all this to you, so just send for a free sample today. Then after you get it and use it, you will like them so well that you will go to your druggist and get a 25c box of these Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 51 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

WANTS TO COMPROMISE

WOULD SETTLE WITH STRATTON ESTATE FOR $5,000.

L. W. Popejoy's Suit for $8,000,000 Said to Be Open for Easy Settlement—Executors Refuse.

The suit of Leslie W. Popejoy against the Stratton estate, for approximately $8,000,000, can be compromised for $5,000, according to an authority in close touch with the executors. This suit comprises the last of the big cases included in the total of $30,000,000 of litigation instituted against the estate. There are only three other cases pending, that of E. A. Merritt on appeal by Meredith Ditz, $50,000, pending in the lower district court, and that of the United States, for $4,885.

Popejoy, who is suing as a result of his alleged act in grubstaking W. S. Stratton during the latter's early prospecting days, will compromise for $5,000, it is said, but the executors will not take advantage of his offer, owing to their faith in ultimate victory. The case was dismissed in the local district court, Popejoy appealing to the supreme court on a bill of exceptions. This was one and one-half years ago, and the plaintiff has eighteen months remaining in which to perfect his appeal.

One reason advanced by the Stratton executors for not compromising the suit for the comparatively insignificant sum, in addition to their hope of winning the case in the supreme court, is that Popejoy agreed to a settlement for a similar sum during the lifetime of Mr. Stratton. His reason for again bringing suit is the alleged deception practiced on him by his former attorneys. As a result, according to Popejoy, he was not placed in possession of the actual facts regarding the status of his case. He is represented in his present litigation by Attorney N. M. Campbell of this city, brother of Justice John Campbell of the supreme court.

Our 10-cent Department

This popular department is becoming stronger and more popular every day on account of the many additions which we are constantly making, and because people are coming to realize more fully the real saving values this department offers. We stoutly maintain that our 10-cent department means to Colorado Springs and vicinity what the 10-cent store means to a city—namely

A PLACE TO SAVE MONEY.

A place where every shopper goes first because many articles are offered at 10 cents for which 20 to 25c is commonly asked. When you realize the great saving you will not wonder that the eastern 10-cent stores are always crowded, and that you always find our store filled with people. Don't take our word for it, drop in and see for yourself.

The Second Great Saturday in Our Candy Dept.

As previously announced our candy department will be a permanent feature of our business. We experienced such an unusual demand on our opening day that many varieties of candy were almost exhausted the first day.

Just two reasons can be offered for the extraordinary heavy sales which we have experienced in this department. First, quality; second, price.

Never before have the people of Colorado Springs been offered such values in candy.

Candies for which you are in the habit of paying 35c to 40c per pound 15c

Candies for which you would ordinarily pay 40c to 60c per pound 25c

Our candies are strictly pure; are made and sold under U. S. serial number 715. Being sole distributors for the famous Red Band brand of candies, we are able to offer better values than anyone else.

MORE ROOM NECESSARY

It is seldom that a clothing company is up against the proposition of clearing out most of their stock regardless of profits. Yet that is the condition of affairs at the R. G. Robbins Clothing company. The progress of the work of remodeling the entire side of the Robbins building is being delayed. The contractors must have the room, and in order to allow them free play, clothing and furnishings are being moved out at sacrifice prices that they will not be retained by dust and dirt. BECOMES WEARY OF VAG LIFE

Soldier Who Deserted Army Gives Himself Up to the Local Police.

Patrolman C. N. Draper yesterday arrested William Hodges, who deserted from the United States army three years ago. Tired of "vagging" around the country, Hodges gave himself up to the officer. The Fort Logan military authorities were communicated with by the police, and will notify the Eagle Pass, Tex., military headquarters, whence Hodges deserted, of his apprehension.

Hodges became intoxicated within twenty-nine days of the expiration of his three-year enlistment, in 1904, and wandered over the line into Mexico. Here he remained until a few weeks ago, when he drifted northward. Had he remained in the United States after his discharge, he would now be exempt by limitation from punishment, but from the limitation period is deducted all time spent out of the United States.

DENVER WOMEN WANT SONG

Springs Ladies Will Sing "Colorado" for Daughters of the Revolution.

The Denver chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has devoted its time this season to the study of "Colorado," and General Irving Hale will deliver an address on "The Glory of Colorado" at a meeting to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Francis W. Loveland, 850 Logan avenue.

Mrs. Maude McFerran Price has received an urgent invitation to be present, the secretary of the chapter saying that "the program committee consider that it will be a charming climax of the afternoon to have the song of Mrs. Price, 'Colorado,' sung." Mrs. Price has accepted the invitation and will go to Denver this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Arnold Logan, who will render "Colorado" with Mrs. Price at the piano.

DELIGHTS ART LOVERS

PAINTINGS BY GUSTAVE MOSLER INTEREST NEW YORK.

Artist Spent Winter in Colorado Springs and Gained Much in Color From Land of Sunshine.

Local residents, and especially art lovers, will read with interest a clipping from the New York Tribune on the paintings and drawings of the late Gustave H. Mosler, Mr. Mosler spent the winter of 1904-05 in Colorado Springs and made many friends in this city.

The Tribune has the following to say with reference to the exhibit:

"There is on view at the Berlin Art gallery a collection of paintings and drawings by the late Gustave H. Mosler, which will be sold there at auction tonight. It illustrates a short but remarkably industrious career. Mr. Mosler was the son of the well-known artist whose work won him recognition here more than 30 years ago, but who's life has been spent much abroad. The son was born in Munich, in 1875, and was brought up in France. As a boy he began to receive artistic instruction from his father, and his progress was rapid. In a brief preface to the catalogue of the present exhibition it is stated that he made his debut at the Salon in 1894. Thenceforth until his death in the summer of 1906 his labors in his profession were unremitting.

"This young artist had talent as well as zeal. Like his father, he cared for simple themes, for figures that might be picturesque in themselves, but were occupied with the ordinary interests of human life. His compositions were not imaginative inventions. They were the fruit of careful observation of the world in which the painter lived. His aptitude was chiefly shown in bold and accurate draftsmanship. As regards color he was disposed to use vivid effects which doubtless, if he had lived, he would have learned to handle with greater subtlety and refinement than he actually achieved. One of the pictures here, 'In the Barn,' contains some good tawny tone, and in several of his larger pictures sunlit foliage is treated with very promising taste. Generally, however, his color was a shade too sharply accented, disclosing an indifference to nuance. In a clever sketchy bit like 'On the Beach,' in which a single figure is introduced against a simple background, this did not greatly matter, but the more elaborate works would have been the better for a toning down of the values.

"Partly, no doubt, Mr. Mosler's color sense was affected by the atmosphere of the Salon, the atmosphere to which his art would seem to have been adjusted. He sought constantly a certain emphasis in the treatment of both form and color, and while this gained him a measure of realistic truth, as in the dramatic canvas called 'Retribution—the Storm,' or the big scene from rural life, 'Wounded Cow,' it involved also a sacrifice of charm. While some of his figure work, such as the picture called 'The Chiefs,' commands respect through its robust facility, he seems to have been working along better lines in his studies of landscape, such as 'A Mountain Brook,' 'Noon-Day' and 'Under the Apple Trees.' The impression left by the whole exhibition is one of a talent which would have carried the artist far if he had been spared for a longer career."

ACTION SAVES MAIL SERVICE

Assurance Given Local Men That no Change Will Be Made This Session.

The protests of the local public organizations against the proposed reduction in the federal railway mail service appropriation is having its effect, according to a telegram received yesterday by President T. J. Fisher of the Chamber of Commerce, from United States Senator T. M. Patterson.

Senator Patterson said in substance that the chairman of the committee on postoffice and post roads has assured him that the railroads will have a hearing, and that no change is probable this session in the compensation paid for the carriage of the mails.

The Chamber of Commerce also received a telegram from State Senator John R. Stephen of this county, saying that he is preparing a joint resolution to memorialize congress not to take summary action in the matter.

WILL BOOST NEW HOSPITAL

A reception was given yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Lennox, 161 North Nevada avenue, by the officers of the Woman's guild of the Deaconess hospital. Considerable time was devoted to the discussion of plans for the new hospital building soon to be erected for the enlargement of the hospital work and the large number in attendance expressed the interest and enthusiasm felt in the movement.

The president, Mrs. John Lennox, was in the chair, and during the business session Dean A. C. Peck of Denver was chief speaker. The Woman's guild has pledged itself to raise a certain amount for the equipment of the new building and each member will do her best to [illegible]

BOOSTS FOR MEMBERS

TWO BANQUETS ARRANGED BY LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Membership Campaign Is All Arranged With Every Evidence of Full Tally at the End.

To arouse interest and enthusiasm among the workers in the big campaign for 500 new members for the Colorado Springs Young Men's Christian association, two big banquets will be held this evening—one for the boys in the association building, the other in Tudor hall. General Secretary Starrett, of the Denver Y. M. C. A., will address the gathering at Tudor's. The address to the boys' banquet will be made by State Secretary Echeliner.

Today ends the free swims for the boys of Colorado Springs, much to their sorrow and disappointment. At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon the gymnasium and swimming pool will be thrown open to the boys of the Lowell, Elkin, Hill, Hunt and Irwin schools.

Headquarters were opened yesterday in the Davis clothing building, corner of Tejon and Kiowa streets.

The steamboat chime whistle, which has been attached to an exhaust pipe of the Star laundry, was tested yesterday morning, and gave complete satisfaction. The final plans for the campaign are being completed. The thermometers have been placed in position and during the day of the membership campaign they will indicate the success with which the workers meet. Letters asking the members of the association to lend their influence and assistance in the winning campaign have been sent out to each member. Postal cards, on the back of which were printed pictures of the association building and of different departments, have also been mailed to hundreds of men and boys in the city.

Attending the banquets tonight will be 100 men and 200 boys. The workers have been divided into teams. Following are the captains of the boys' teams: Joe Sinton, Steele school; Glenn Cheley, Lowell school; Burdett Root, Columbia school; Forrest Dickey, Garfield school No. 1; George Keener, Garfield school No. 2; Archie Smith, Washington school; Victor Doyle, High school No. 1; Robert Boyd, High school No. 2; Carl St. John, Libbs school; Howard Esch, employed boys.

Boosting the campaign, all of the leading business men of the city have been devoting a portion of the advertising space in the daily papers to the association. "Join the Y. M. C. A." many of the ads. run.

Nature Tells You

As Many a Colorado Springs Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick,
Nature tells you all about it.
The urine is nature's calendar.
Infrequent or too frequent action;
Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.
Colorado Springs people testify to this.

Mrs. Laura Ellsworth, 1411 Lincoln avenue, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are undoubtedly the best kidney medicine I ever used. The kidney trouble in my case was one of long standing. I suffered greatly from pains through my back and loins and an inflammation of the bladder. The kidney secretions were very scanty at times, while at others they would be much too frequent, causing me great annoyance. My daughter procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for me at the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. and from the wonderful relief received from their use, I feel that I can well recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others suffering from similar troubles."

AMELIA BINGHAM'S GOWNS

Amazing Creations Worn by Actress in New Play, "The Lilac Room."

Although Miss Amelia Bingham in private life is distinguished for simplicity of attire, on the stage she exemplifies to a striking degree that opulence of modern apparel which so prevails today, that King Solomon in all his glory would pale before the gorgeousness of the modish woman. Man marveled at the armor of flashing jet and silver paillettes that held sway for a season. Their wearers' satisfaction in a garment seemingly too expensive to become commonplace was of brief duration, for in another year spangled robes at $4.98 became a drug on the market. Rare and costly laces were next attained by the elect. Alas! cheap imitations provided them for the masses. Nowhere was competition for novelty in gowns more keen than behind the footlights. Actresses popularly supposed to "set the styles" vied with one another in designing confections calculated to win the desired envy of fellow-players and the admiration of the feminine patrons.

One, of resources both mental and financial, conceived an idea; straightway booked a transatlantic passage to take counsel of a man beloved by the "females who buy" and held in awe by the "males who pay." Miss Bingham was the actress with the idea; Paquin, the artist with the ability to realize it.

Miss Bingham said: "I want a diamond dress." Paquin smiled. "Yes, madame" then in French to his assistants: "These Americans, they will ask for the clouds, with the moon and stars as trimming." Then, in English, to Miss Bingham, "I salute you, madame, it is one magnificent idea."

The $2,500 Gown.

Together they planned the gown that when completed was a nine days' wonder. It is a creation of silver and gold embroidery, studded with the shaded French jewels. The long, graceful angel sleeves are of pale blue, transparent chiffon, clinging to her arms with the weight of the sapphires arranged in star fashion here and there upon them. In the last act Miss Bingham is seen in the opal negligee, for which Mrs. Osborn deserves unstinted praise. It is white gauze, hand-painted with delicate pink roses. Interwoven with the gauze are silver threads, so that in some lights the robe appears to be pure white and in other shades to all the faint bewildering rainbow colors to which the opal is known to change. It is empire design, over a slip of white chiffon and this is arranged over a tight-fitting lining of white crepe de chine. The negligee opens in an invisible fashion, for neither the front nor back shows a vestige of [illegible]

Opals A-plenty.

Opal trimmings in flat bands composed of innumerable opal tinted paillettes border the divided train, also the long sashes under the arms extending to the edge of the gown. The entire lower portion of the negligee is an intricate study of cross bands of these exquisitely fragile opal strips of trimming, and even through all of this there are studded opals of all sizes, making it one of the mysteries of the dressmaker's art how the fairylike embroidered gauze ever held the weight of lavish beauty fairly showered upon it. The neck is cut square, bordered with opal bands and at either side of the front of the corsage are large winged butterflies made entirely of the changing stones. The butterfly sleeves hang perfectly loose from the armholes, where more of the jeweled butterflies form an effective cap fashion, and countless long strings of pearls and opals hanging from the neck of the negligee move and glimmer with every movement of the wearer. Imagine under this a mass of billowy tinted chiffon, accordion pleated ruffles, and glimpses of a chiffon slip, ornamented with French bowknots of shirred chiffon, and then when the gown is seen, one will realize the impossibility of venturing an attempt to half describe it.

Simpler in design is the coral dress. The foundation is of a faint yellow crepe de chine, trimmed with lace of the same color, heavily outlined in an elaborate design of coral. The bodice is a solid mass of embroidery, as is the hem of the flowing skirt. Touches of coral velvet outline the top of the corsage and confine at the wrist the loose undersleeves of coral embroidered chiffon. A long chain of coral and jade beads are the only jewels worn with this toilette, which is peculiarly becoming to Miss Bingham's blonde loveliness. There can be little doubt that her first appearance at the Opera house next Wednesday evening will set the millinery end of the town agog.

AMELIA BINGHAM

who struggled to gain a card of admittance to the atelier where was exhibited to a chosen few the dress of "L'Americaine." Paris was richer by twenty-five hundred American dollars; the New York stage by a gown that dazzled even the blase first-nighter. There is no duplicate of it in the world; ten-thousand rhinestones, such as are used for jewelry, are sewed by hand on the silk net foundation, which is cut all in one piece. Four women worked for three months to put on the gems and the embroidery. Large jewels are sewed in a design of feathery fern and palms and the net is studded with minute stones like diamond dust. A border of rose-buds and leaves is embroidered in gold all around the edges of the trained skirt, and in a solid panel in front, reaching from the belt to the hem of the skirt. The low cut bodice is almost a solid mass of stones. It has no sleeves, but there are transparent [illegible] with string after string of rhinestones festooned like tops across the top of the arms. While the weight of the stones, the gold embroidery and the yards of satin over which the net is laid, make the gown an unusually heavy one to wear, its cut and fit are so perfect that Miss Bingham can lift her arms high above her head and move about in it with perfect ease.

This revelation of what might be accomplished in jewel set gowns with their combined purity of line and beauty of color, satisfied the actress-manager that the diamond dress has not exhausted sartorial possibilities along these lines. Today she possesses a sapphire and a coral gown, both designed by Worth, and an opal robe from the workroom of Mrs. Osborn, an American rival of this noted Frenchman. These, with the diamond dress, are the gowns alternately worn in "The Lilac Room." The actress, like the woman in private life, tires of one costume, no matter how superb, when worn night after night, so if she can afford it, contrives a series of toilettes for the run of a play.

The Sapphire Gown.

The gown preferred by Miss Bingham and which she will wear in the second act of "The Lilac Room," is the sapphire. The material is heavy satin crepe de chine of a pale sapphire tint, cut in a long, clinging princesse robe. Beginning at the square cut decollete and extending to within 15 inches of the bottom of this wonderful gown are seen lines composed of French jewels in regular stone settings and shading from pale to the deepest blue of sapphire. The jewels are small where they begin at the neck, then gradually grow larger as the shaded rays increase in width on the skirt of the princesse gown, and burst into designs of fully perfected beauty around its lower portion. The jewels are here blended with exquisitely embroidered leaves and large French bowknots worked in gold and silver in a manner marvelous to see, even in a season made notable by most beautifully executed hand embroidery.

The square decollete is bordered with designs of the silver and gold embroidery studded with the shaded French jewels. The long, graceful angel sleeves are of pale blue, transparent chiffon, clinging to her arms with the weight of the sapphires arranged in star fashion here and there upon them. In the last act Miss Bingham is seen in the opal negligee, for which Mrs. Osborn deserves unstinted praise. It is white gauze, hand-painted with delicate pink roses. COLORADO SPRINGS PAYROLL.

ASK anybody what Colorado Springs depends on for its prosperity and he will immediately answer, "the tourist and health resort business." It is true that these two factors contribute more to the volume of the business done by local merchants than anything else, but Colorado Springs is by no means dependent entirely on them. It has an industrial payroll which is not to be despised, even though it is not as large as it would be if this were a manufacturing center. According to carefully compiled figures published elsewhere in this paper, the monthly payroll of the industrial plants and other large employers of labor aggregates about $460,000. This does not take into account the amount disbursed in salaries by the hundreds of stores, professional offices and other smaller establishments, each of which employs from one to a dozen people. If these were added the total would be largely increased.

The prevailing sentiment in Colorado Springs is more strongly in favor of securing new industries than it has ever been before, for it is beginning to be realized that the city cannot grow much larger if it depends solely on its climatic advantages. There is no good reason why Colorado Springs should not continue to grow more and more popular as the nation's greatest all-the-year-round health and pleasure resort, and at the same time become more of a manufacturing and distributing center. It has better railroad facilities than Pueblo or any city in the entire Rocky Mountain region except Denver. It has an abundance of desirable sites for factories and warehouses and plenty of water to supply their needs. There is enough power going to waste in the mountain streams to generate all of the electrical energy required. Factory smoke would be fatal to the city's pretensions as a health and pleasure resort, but smoke is no longer an unavoidable evil, even when soft coal is burned. Improved methods of furnace construction and of stoking have done away with the smoke nuisance in every place where the owners of the plant have been willing to bear the small extra expense involved.

It will probably be a surprise to most people in Colorado Springs to learn that this city has so large an industrial payroll, inasmuch as its industries are usually lightly regarded. When so much can be accomplished without any public effort whatever it is plain that an organized campaign for more and greater industries would produce results of the utmost value. This is a work which the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, and the Real Estate Exchange can far undertake too soon or early forward too vigorously.

THE TELEGRAPH'S STREET CAR PASSES.

DISCUSSING the pass question, the organ of the street railway company says: "We see no reason why the paper should not either accept or refuse this transportation, according to its own wishes."

Quite right. But if it accepts it should keep shorty watch lest consciously or unconsciously, it find its love for the pass growing stronger than its love for the public whose interests it is supposed, as a newspaper, to hoof after. We do not contend that there is any barrier to a newspaper accepting passes so long as it does not permit those passes to influence its attitude toward public questions involving the individual or corporation that gives them. Our criticism of the Telegraph is based on the fact, which is apparent to everybody, that on all questions affecting the management of the Stratton estate or the street railway company it has sold its right of free speech for a few passes. It is this fact that has caused it to be generally known throughout the city as the organ of the Stratton executors, even though it has the cheek to call itself by the grandiloquent title of "organ of the people."

The Telegraph prides itself on the fact that its "transportation is received from the street car company in return for advertising". This would be important if it were true, but it is not true. What reader of the Telegraph remembers ever seeing an advertisement of the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Company in the columns of that journal? If any such has appeared within the past year we should be pleased to receive a clipping of it to frame and hang conspicuously in this office. We look in vain for anything resembling an advertisement of the street railway in the advertising columns of that paper, but when one strikes the editorial columns—ah, there it is different! Covert defense of the men who are holding up the people of Colorado Springs for double fares; attacks on the one paper that has the honesty and independence to criticise their methods, and deep, impenetrable silence as to every instance of incompetency and mismanagement. There's where the Telegraph makes its "return" for its passes. There's where it pays for its mess of pottage. It has the glorious privilege of riding free from one end of the system to the other, while the dear people whose "organ" it professes to be are paying double fares, but just the same it is paying a price in the loss of popular confidence that amounts to more in one day than the aggregate value of all the headless tickets it gets in a year.

If [illegible] the Telegraph [illegible] away its right of free speech for a few miserable passes. Yet the evening before he placed back in [illegible] position where [illegible] criticisms which it knows to be true and just, and which ninety-nine out of every hundred of its readers know are true and just.

No Labor press-muzzler is needed for the Telegraph. It is about as effectually gagged already as it is possible for a newspaper to be and remain a newspaper.

THE Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN.

ABOUT a year ago the Colorado Springs Y. M. C. A. made a whirlwind campaign to raise a fund of $50,000 with which to pay its indebtedness and make some needed improvements. It succeeded beyond its expectations of its workers, and now is in better financial condition than ever before in its history. Tomorrow another campaign is to be made, of only one day's duration, with the object of securing 500 new members. The men at the head of the Association [illegible] new able to take care of a largely increased membership, and they want as many young men as possible to share in the benefits of the work.

For some time the membership of the Association has been advancing steadily toward the one-thousand mark. If 500 recruits are gained tomorrow the total will be brought to nearly 1,500, and when that figure is reached it will be necessary to establish a waiting list for new applicants, for even the present splendid building and equipment are not large enough to provide for more than 1,500.

It is not stating the case too strongly to say that there is no institution in the land that throws a better influence around the young man during the formative period of his life than the Young Men's Christian Association. It occupies a place which neither the home nor the church can fill. No healthy, vigorous youngster wants to spend all of his spare time at home, even though its surroundings may be the pleasantest. He wants to get out where he can meet other boys and play games that will give him a chance to work off his surplus energy. No sensible parent will attempt to curb this perfectly natural desire, but neither will a sensible parent permit his boy to frequent places where he will be exposed to questionable influences. It is for just such cases that the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. is designed, and anybody who knows anything about it is aware that it fills the need perfectly.

But the Y. M. C. A. is not merely an organization maintained for the benefit of small boys. Indeed, this feature is supplementary to its real purpose. It is primarily an organization of young men who wish to make the best of the gifts Nature has bestowed upon them by cultivating their minds and bodies along the soundest lines. It brings the young men of a community into closer contact, affords them every opportunity for self-improvement, and provides them with a place of rest and recreation conducted in a thoroughly sensible manner.

There is nothing namby-pamby about the Y. M. C. A., though a few people who have never taken the trouble to inform themselves hold a contrary idea. Its influence makes men, not "sissies". It is growing steadily everywhere throughout the civilized world, just as it is growing in Colorado Springs, and its growth is won by sheer merit. There are more than 500 young men in this town who ought to join it tomorrow.

Press Opinions

WORTH CONSIDERING.

From the Indianapolis News.

"If the senate be not [illegible] about abolishing college football. Think what a big slam an action would be to football."

BAILEY.

From the Nashville American.

"It will look strange to a Texan senator to show up in Washington a certificate that places herself investigated, renovated, whitewashed and fumigated or something [illegible]."

COLD MEALS AND ALCOHOL.

From the Laurel.

As if to compensate for the uninviting and possibly, at the outset, depressing aspect of a cold meal, it has been observed that the person to whom, for some special and, it may be, unfortunate circumstances, a warm meal is the exception, commonly exhibits a desire to indulge in alcoholic stimulants.

SALOME.

From the New York Sun.

"Evil communications corrupt good manners." Salome, for instance, stands morally snitched before the eyes of all men. Yet there is an authority for it that the Princess of Judea was other than a charming young damsel with a surpassing aptitude for the dance. If her notions of modesty did not conform to the present code of correct conduct in deportment it must be remembered that she had never heard of Oscar Wilde or Richard Strauss, and that, at least, she was no worse than her sire.

The gospel, according to St. Matthew, makes no complaint about Salome's morals, and good corroborative testimony is furnished by the gospel according to St. Mark. There are no higher authorities. But even scripture can not clothe Salome's dance—coming as it did in circumstances so delicate that she was the daughter of her mother—with a more highly artistic or to prove that Herodias was unblushingly bold. When domestic infelicities between King Philip and Herodias [illegible] the most enthusiastic champions of Salome could find that she sided with her mother in [illegible] on the part of a daughter, from certain points of view.

It is more difficult to excuse, or even to explain, Salome's unofficial residence in the vicinity of Lake Merom. Herod, Antipas, that fine specimen of the chameleonic of Herodias is fair to believe, but she must have been old enough to understand the scandal of that unconventional ménage, with the brother of her first husband. It was common talk at the time, due to the fervid public utterances of John the Baptist.

The prophet's death was not of Salome's instigation, as Oscar Wilde's limpid French prose and Richard Strauss' discordant structure of superimposed counterpoint would have the new generation to believe. It was the affair of Herodias. The damsel was in doubt as to what her dance before Herod was worth, and consulted mother. Here was a chance for that subtle female's revenge, and John's head was made the price. And thus Salome became an innocent tool and a fair mark for nineteenth century problem plays.

It is fair to history, as opposed to art, that the facts of the girl's story be emphatically set forth. Shakespeare succeeded in damning forever Richard III, of England because that unhappy founder of the British system of public education had no friends to defend him in the Globe theater, London, on the night that he became the murderous hump of a five-act melodrama.

But Salome's misfortune, [illegible] in New York's gold is the play of new sensations. We have [illegible] at the opera and Salome at the theater, speaking over Bergson and Grahame. We have Salome in vaudeville [illegible]. We have Lasdek [illegible] on Salome at the Parsons. We have had even have Salome [illegible] Salome's hair bobbed—but that is another story.

Open Parliament

MODERN DEMANDS UPON THE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

"Probably no nation of the world takes greater pains in the education of all its youth at public expense than the United States. It is agreed by all that American public schools are far from perfect and who shall tell us what is perfect, but astounding strides forward have been taken in swift succession in recent years. Many men are yet called young who can recall the times when it required a considerable course in college to get what is now offered in the public high school. In those days a course in public instruction was never calculated to include such practical studies as the commercial courses, economics, the principles of government, and the mechanic arts. The ancient classics with kindred studies constituted the major portion of the "higher education" of those days.

In a recent number of his magazine Henry Turner Bailey expresses in [illegible] the modern school. The substance of his editorial is that the farmer, or even the present school curriculum, without generally meet the new conditions that confront us. There are three potent factors in education: the industrial world; the home; the school. In the days of apprenticeship, motor training was obtained during the learning of the trades. In the days of the farm home the many and varied duties of farm life served successfully the same vital purpose in character growth. The public school of those days would do well, if in the short winter school term, it could supplement these with the necessary "readin', 'ritin, 'rithmetic."

But conditions have changed. The apprenticeship system is all but obsolete; the proportion of American youth reared on farms is geometrically diminishing; no other form of home or industrial training has arisen to supply the deficiency, and in no other institution than the public school is it possible to meet it. This has led to a study of all forms of manual work, and to the introduction of some of the more valuable forms into the schools. These are not trade schools; it is not the purpose of woodwork to make carpenters, nor of reed work to create a race of basket weavers, though these are laudable pursuits and well-trained men will always be needed in both. But if a boy's interest can be awakened by mechanics, or the girl's neatness by sewing, when literature or history have failed, these are vital factors in their unfolding.

The basis of all modern American life and growth is achievement. The men who do things are the heroes in things both small and great. The boys who make these men are they who learn to do things by doing things. Constructive education is as valuable and necessary as abstractions in mental and moral training. The one supplements the other in the making of good citizenship. In the growth of the schools of Colorado Springs a need of great proportions has arisen. In our beautiful city, with its intelligent parentage and no child-labor factories, a very large proportion of the children remain in school through the upper grades and on through High school. This has congested the present High school building beyond its maximum capacity for good work by 30 per cent or more already, and with prospects of a continued increase. If the youth of our city wish a higher education it will be wise economy to provide them a chance and a square deal in that chance.

In view of these two conditions that confront us, viz: the modern demands of an opportunity for a mechanic's training during the public school course, and the urgent need of great high school accommodations, this is surely an heroic opportunity for him who believes that Colorado's greatest asset is a well trained young manhood and womanhood. To vote sufficient bonds for the erection of a Manual High school would probably be as novel at this time as it is impossible, but the best institutions of this sort all over the country were not generally built by public taxation.

A well equipped Manual Arts High school would help us to meet the needs of our modern life, would relieve the present and future congestion at the High school building, and be the richest heritage of a goodly portion of the youth of the city.

PROPOSED ELECTRIC LINES.

From the Saguache Crescent.

Of late there has been much said on the subject of electric railroads for this valley. And while this talk has been going on in the valley, outside capitalists have been considering the advisability of a system taking in all the important towns of the valley, [illegible] a month.

IN APPRECIATIVE MOOD.

From the Saguache Crescent.

When one leaves this valley and travels through snow for miles in the surrounding mountainous country, on his return he is in just the right humor to fully appreciate and enjoy the climatic luxuries of the sunny San Luis.

THE SORE EDITOR.

From the Colorado Transcript.

The Loveland editor who advises his brothers to stay at home and attend to business instead of chasing around to editorial dissociation meetings might learn something, comparing his sheet with those run by men who believe they can still learn something by contact with others.

OUR DELIGHTFUL CLIMATE.

From the Florence Citizen.

The Record calls attention to the abnormally large number of visitors from the east who are spending their winters at Colorado City. A great many of them come here for health and many of them [illegible] this climate of their present homes, of course, a considerable number find the climate delightful and the place so attractive they decide to remain. A gentleman residing on Lincoln avenue says that there has been so great a demand for property in that district as at the present time and added that it is not twenty-five minutes from the south end of town to within thirty-five minutes' walk of town.

This is a matter in which Florence is as much as any other town in Colorado interested, as it is a fact that the tide that is setting this way will increase if some proper inducement can be held out to such immigration. The interests in purpose to build an irrigation system for the cultivation thousands of acres to the north of town has begun a campaign to induce people to come here. There is a large area adjoining the city that is capable of a high state of cultivation as the orchards and gardens with which Colorado City has surrounded herself, and only needs to be shown, upon the market at reasonable terms to find purchasers.

A VALENTINE DREAM.

Oh I wish I had a valentine! A really, truly valentine!
Such as all girls catch SO from one who loves them dear.
I've so many wealthy suitors (though some folks say they're freebooters),
Oh, I wish I'd get a valentine, a truly one this year!

I want the street car company to charge a smaller fee;
To give me five-cent fares on trips that now are always ten;
The hydra-headed Hydroite might give me good, clear, sparkling light;
And then I might be brought to think there are chivalrous men!

I want the water rates reduced, the new street cars all put to use,
Before the summer rush has come and left me all forlorn;
I also want the Stratton Home, so my good old folks need not roam;
Well, these few gifts I'd be rather up next Valentine's morn.

SOME CURIOS AND ODDITIES.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

One man said to another in a restaurant: "I'll bet you're a druggist."

"No. You're wrong."

"A chemist, then?"

"Wrong again."

"A photographer?"

"This time you're right. How did you guess?"

"Oh, it was simply enough," was the answer. "I guessed it from the way you held the vinegar cruet in making your salad. You put no [illegible] in the bottom of the bottle. No one but a man accustomed to measuring out standardized and exact quantities does that."

"So you thought that snuff had died out, did you?" said a millionaire snuff [illegible] "It has died out among fashionable people but millions of pounds of it are still consumed.

"I send a great deal of snuff south. In Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas the poor 'dip' snuff in huge quantities. To 'dip' it is to rub it on the gums and in the crevices of the teeth.

"I also send a lot of snuff to France. The lower class in France still carry their own snuffboxes and still sniff and sniff up the pinch in the regulation way.

"I do a good trade, too, with South America and Africa. The Kaffirs stain their noses with snuff mixed with [illegible] while the Patagonians rub it up their nostrils with small wooden spoons.

"Have no fear about the snuff trade. There is still a good living in it."

[illegible] Bonn to Paris [illegible] a fourth man. "I was very much disappointed in the St. Gothard. [illegible] that Italy Alpine pass was a disappointment. It was cloudy and I saw nothing of the place. Bad luck, [illegible]

"Now, of all the places I visited [illegible] I find everybody finds the St. Gothard [illegible]

"Nearly everybody finds the St. Gothard wrapped in fog and mist. The St. Gothard, in fact, is the foggiest place in the world.

"London has thirty-eight days of fog a year. Munich has forty-seven. Hamburg has fifty-two. Tegernsee, in the Bavarian Alps, has 75. Overtopping all of them comes the St. Gothard, with an annual average of 277 foggy days."

The Japanese prince drew in his breath with a hissing sound as he bent over the young girl's hand.

"Prince," said she, "I have been up against a lot of Japs, and they all kick like that when they meet you. What's the reason, anyway?"

"The reason is politeness," the prince answered. "I hiss—like this—I draw in my breath—I keep on drawing it in as long as I remain near you. For if I blow out some of it might be blown in your fair face. 'What an offense!' Shocking! And so we Japanese always hiss in exchanging greetings. Out of politeness we hold our breath."

Winston Churchill, when he has an important piece of writing before him, eats very little meat and cuts his allowance of tobacco in half. He finds that this regimen gives unusual clarity to his mind.

David Belasco drinks an occasional cup of black coffee while at work. The noted playwright has been known to toil steadily at his desk for twenty hours at a stretch, taking nothing but strong coffee—a large cup every second or third hour.

Conan Doyle finds that he does his best work in the late afternoon after having drank copiously of Russian tea.

Booth Tarkington, when at work, rises at 5 o'clock in the morning, drinks a little cocoa and writes till 9. Nearly all his best passages have been written at sunrise.

Richard Harding Davis, strange to say, has a great fondness for mince pie, and in the midst of his work will send downstairs for a quarter section every hour or two.

NEWSOM & HOLMES ENLARGE BUSINESS

A little over a year ago Newsom & Holmes, formerly tailors at Indianapolis, Ind., came to this city and opened a similar shop at 128 East Pikes Peak avenue. From the very first their methods of building clothes and the quality of the work turned out met with immediate favor and they have enjoyed a volume of business far beyond their expectations. Prior to coming here they had been associated with men's furnishing goods and to meet the demand here they have decided to conduct such a business along with tailoring. Since the first of the year they have been remodeling their store room, fitting it out with beautiful mission fixtures and installing a new plate glass window, thus making it a very presentable store room, in fact the only one of its kind in the city. Exclusive lines of haberdashery are coming daily and in a short time they will be ready to serve the public with a complete and up-to-date line of furnishings in the same good way which they have in the past and are now applying in tailoring suits.

La Grippe With Consumption

The attacks of La grippe that have [illegible] in this winter are so to be almost an epidemic. [illegible] through several patients to our offices. We have found that since they had La grippe their lungs have given them more trouble. In some cases they feel quite sure that they were improving before the La grippe came to them but since that they notice more difficulty in breathing, [illegible] through their lungs and a general feeling of weakness that they can not seem to throw off.

La grippe is a fruitful cause of consumption. [illegible] La grippe especially where there is a cough with [illegible] or deposit in the lungs. If this effusion or deposit does not clear up quickly it makes a culture field for the germs of tuberculosis to get in their work whenever they can find a good lodging place. La grippe [illegible] and consumption follows on account of that weakness or failure of the system to throw off the disease.

The reasons why consumption follows La grippe are as the [illegible] La grippe. We find in applying our treatment that these sequelae of La grippe [illegible] the instruments very soon open up the air cells that have been rendered [illegible] take in more air and consequently more oxygen. The blood is enriched and purified [illegible] is restored and the patient feels their strength return. The increase of expectoration [illegible] attack of La grippe occurred some time ago and these symptoms of increased coughing and expectoration have been [illegible] for some time. It is sometimes impossible to arrest these symptoms but if the patient comes to us such as are being taken with the La grippe there is usually very little difficulty in overcoming the bad effects of it and in going on with the treatment the patient soon get to a point where they are really better than they were before they had the La grippe. This treatment opens up a possibility of a return to the home and even now although it is late in the winter a good many of those who adopt the treatment will be able to go home as soon as the weather is well settled.

One other point that we have not spoken of is the fact that La grippe frequently weakens the heart. This is an added reason why one should adopt this treatment as early in the case as possible because if it is possible at all to control the heart until the lungs have sufficiently improved the patient can go to their homes in the east where the altitude is lower and by continuing the treatment there, do better than they would here. Here the weak heart would interfere with any improvement that would otherwise be made in the lungs. There the heart would be quiet and the treatment will do more for the lungs a good deal than the climate could do here with a weak heart. This is certainly an interesting subject for those who have any trouble with their lungs or heart or who have suffered with La grippe. It would be interesting for such cases to come to our offices in the Barnes Bldg. and talk it all over. Consultations and examinations are free. Office hours 1 cm 10 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 4 p. m. Sundays excepted.

Confidence Among Traders Greatly Increased—Various Rumors Play Part in Day's Movement

NEW YORK Feb 13 The stock market gave the first clear indications of organized speculative control since the long side set the market since the abandonment of the campaign for the rise in January The surface indications of operations was not discernible but the fact of the executing of large individual buying orders for various stocks was manifest Brokerage houses which usually handle large accounts were buyers in lots of several hundred shares in various important stocks The manner of executing the orders did not warrant the assumption that accumulation was the first consideration of the buying was evident that the letting of prices was a design as much as the selling of stock Without this display of more aggressive buying in the speculation there was an improvement in sentiment There was no actual change in conditions so far as public knowledge reached to account for the change in sentiment

Much stress was laid by the holders of stocks on the confidence with which Washington that the moderate reduction of customs duties from present rates would be enacted and that the President would not call an extraordinary session of congress Not much effect on market conditions is expected during the period of the proposed measure but the prevailing opinion of the speculative element was that the determination to take action on the subject this being regarded as a promise that more comprehensive steps would be taken later when the time for action should arrive

PRICES AT LOWEST POINT OF DAY AT CLOSE.

Market Is Affected by Reports From Northwest—Corn Is Depressed Oats Quiet

CHICAGO Feb 13—The wheat market closed weak following a sharp decline at Liverpool which was said to have been caused by diminished shipping demand The market was also affected somewhat by increased receipts in the northwest During the last hour selling by local and outside longs was general Toward the middle of the day the market rallied on an active demand by commission houses The rally soon lost strength and receded to a fresh low During the last hour the market suffering from continued pressure on the report that receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth are likely to increase during the remainder of the week The market closed weak with prices 3c to 1c lower than yesterday May opened 3c to 1c lower at 95c to 79⅞c sold up to 80⅛c and then declined to 79c Final quotations were at 80⅛c

Setting in for the decline was heavy for a greater part of the day but fairly active demand by elevators coupled with prevented any material decline The weakness of wheat was due to the big increase in receipts and the fact that the commission houses were the principal buyers May closed steadily May opened at 46⅛c to 46⅛c advanced to 46⅝c and closed [illegible]

The big increase in receipts was a surprise to the trade [illegible] May opened 41⅛c to 40⅞c low [illegible] at 40⅞c

RICH POCKET STRIKE

TEN-OUNCE ORE FOUND IN ANNIE C. CLAIM.

Stowell Mining Company Encounters Good Pay Streak—New Mill May Be Erected

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK Feb 13—The Stowell Mining company which has a long-time lease on the Annie C claim on the southeast slope of Copper mountain has while following on one course into a rich pocket that will run sixty to ten ounces [illegible] about [illegible] inches [illegible] silver and gold The ore has been assaying about $40 and is being treated at the Breccia Rhyolite mill at the rate of about ten tons a day The ore is being mined at a depth of 190 feet and about 80 feet east of the shaft

The leasing company is now having to make arrangements to sink a new shaft down to the 300 foot level and to put in a mill right at the mine capable of handling not less than 40 tons daily and perhaps 100 tons owing to the fact that the ore has to be transported 110 feet to the present mill it is too much expense to mine it

NEVADA ELY COPPER CO.'S STOCK NOW SELLING AT TEN CENTS PER SHARE

Mr McClam president of this company and others are in Ely this week looking after the interests of this company The officers wish to impress the public with the fact that they have recently added 10 acres to their holdings in the best part of the district adjoining the Salt Lake Ely on which rich strikes have recently been made and that they have voluntarily added this to the holdings of the company without any increase in capitalization It is the intention of the Nevada Ely Copper Company to push development work as rapidly as possible and make the Nevada Ely Copper Company one of the great mines of this wonderful district

The great smelters at Ely are being pushed to completion as rapidly as labor and material can be obtained and when they are once started all of the stocks in the district will no doubt experience a decided advance

People who are familiar with the situation say that stock in the Nevada Ely Copper Company should be selling at not less than twenty five cents per share and possibly one dollar in a short time With stocks in our vicinity selling at one dollar and upwards we see no reason why our claims should not be realized fully

A limited amount of the stock of this company is now offered at ten cents per share Buy now and get the advantage of the next advance which will probably be to 15 cents per share

Is your upholstery work being done right?

THAT'S the word, "right." How small the word, yet how much it means. A good housekeeper is surely a good judge of furniture and drapery. Indeed, how often we are called upon to complete the work that other concerns were unable to do satisfactorily, just because they were doing it for a good housekeeper—for people who know.

[illegible] this department it has had a gradual and permanent growth. Those who know and those who care come to us for upholstery and drapery work for they know it will be "right" in the severest judgment.

At the head of this department are two competent men thoroughly experienced in all its lines—men who are courteous and obliging and will promise perfectly satisfactory service.

How about touching up or re-upholstering the worn furniture for spring? Maybe there's new drapery needed; remodeling of some sort, or, perhaps, you have new furniture to be upholstered. Now is the time to have such work done. [illegible] get an estimate. Some of the largest jobs of the city have been done by us. If we can please others and save them money we surely can do likewise by you. Be fair with yourself. Try us.
